ROUGH RIDERS

SC'S NEW BACK COUNTRY HORSEMEN CHAPTER PROTECTS RESOURCES

STORY BY HANNAH ARNDT

South Carolina is blessed with diverse natural landscapes offering great opportunities for outdoor recreation all the way from the coast to the mountains. One group working to protect our state's natural environment and keep trails open and safe is the Back Country Horsemen of South Carolina.

This newly instated state chapter of the Back Country Horsemen of America works to ensure that public lands remain open for recreational stock use, assists in the maintenance and management of lands, and educates equestrians and others on active and safe participation in back country resources.

The quality that all back country horsemen share is their love for riding trails. However, each year riders lose miles of trail across the country due to closures, weather,

Chainsaws and other tools are used to clear trails.

Tree removal at Woods Ferry Recreation Area.

While BCHSC members gather to ride trails, perfect navigation and work on packing skills, they also work to restore trails to safe and navigable conditions. Many BCHSC members have attended workshops hosted by the National Forest Service to become chainsaw certified in order to help maintain trails. These skills were put to use in the past few months as areas across the state suffered damage as a result of severe weather and tornados. BCHSC members were able to clear debris and downed trees at Kings Mountain State Park, Woods Ferry Recreation Area and Long Cane Horse Trails.

Although many members are devoted to trail riding and preservation, a large part of the organization is focused on conservation education and advocacy.

"Members don't have to be just back country rough riders to be involved in the organization," said BCHSC Chairman Mike Kinsey.

The organization hopes to have members assigned to each area of the state to get to know local land managers, legislators and communities in hopes to expand access to and improve trails.

"You don't have to be out on trails cutting limbs to help out," added Kinsey.

The Back Country Horsemen of South Carolina look forward to hosting navigation course trainings and other workshops in the future. For a full list of upcoming events, please visit the Back Country Horsemen of South Carolina Facebook page , facebook.com/BCHofSC.

mechanized vehicle usage, and other causes.

"The biggest issue facing South Carolina right now is the limited resources available to keep trails open for recreational stock use," said Lisa Ruth, BCHSC Vice Chair. "We need to work with hikers, bikers, rangers, BCH members and local communities to preserve trails; lobby at the local, state and federal levels; and educate equestrians and the general public on the protection of public lands."

TIME TO GET YOUR DUCKS IN A ROW

I know farmers are always busy, but if you're thinking about applying for federal COVID-19 relief funds, it's time to stop thinking and start applying. The application deadline for USDA's Coronavirus Food Assistance Program (CFAP) aid is Sept. 11, 2020. Fortunately it was extended from August, but it's still coming quickly.

CFAP provides direct relief to farmers and ranchers who faced price declines and additional marketing costs due to COVID-19. These funds authorized by Congress and the White House are an important boost for producers who've done so much to see us all through this crisis.

If you looked into the program early on, I urge you to take another look, as USDA dramatically expanded the list of eligible commodities in July and again earlier this month.

Earlier this month I had the chance to visit with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue about the CFAP, and USDA was concerned that affected farmers were not applying for the amount of money that had been allocated. That's probably why some of these changes occurred.

Visit farmers.gov/cfap for a one-stop shop on CFAP, including eligible commodities, forms, and an online application generator and payment calculator. You can also call your county FSA office for help.

I'm also happy to let you all know that I'm coronavirus-free. After testing positive for the virus in July, I quarantined for a few weeks, never experiencing more than mild symptoms, most notably losing my sense of smell. Blanche had it a bit worse, but we both got through it safely. We know hundreds of thousands of people worldwide don't have it so good, and we count ourselves fortunate and blessed.

Most importantly, I'm back to spending time with my grandchildren. In fact, that's how I knew I was really through it: Two weeks ago I was giving my granddaughter Virginia a good night hug and I noticed I could smell her hair. It was a nice revelation that my sense of smell had returned.

I encourage others who've recovered from COVID-19 to consider giving plasma so it can be used as a treatment. And don't forget to wear a mask when you're in public. Together, we can get through this.

OFFICIALS INVESTIGATE MYSTERY SEED MAILINGS

BY EVA MOORE

In late July, the South Carolina Department of Agriculture began receiving reports from citizens who'd been sent unsolicited packages. The packages appeared to have been mailed from China, and contained unlabeled packets of seeds.

It soon became clear that the issue was much bigger than those first few reports. Virginia and Washington State agriculture officials issued alerts about similar incidents; TV reporters began calling; and more reports from South Carolinians began pouring in.

SCDA worked with Clemson University's Regulatory Services Division to issue an alert about the mailings, urging people to use caution. Don't plant the seeds, they advised. Put them in a zip-top bag and let us know. Clemson created a webpage for people to report seeds, and SCDA continued to collect reports as well.

USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service began coordinating an investigation, working with the Department of Homeland Security's Customs and Border Protection and various federal and state agencies to collect information and begin testing the seeds.

So far, according to APHIS officials, the seeds have been identified as a variety of species, including ornamentals, fruits and vegetables, herbs, and weeds.

While the investigation is ongoing, APHIS officials have said they believe the seed mailings are part of a "brushing" scam in which online sellers send out unsolicited items to create a "sale" for which they can then post a positive review. However, the scope of this particular brushing scam is unusual, with thousands of reports from across the United States, the European Union and elsewhere.

Whatever the reason for the mailings, sending seeds illegally is serious business.

"Seeds for planting pose a significant risk for U.S. agriculture and natural resources because they can carry seed-borne viruses or other diseases," reads an APHIS document about the mailings. "Imported vegetable or agricultural seed must meet labeling and phytosanitary requirements and be inspected by APHIS and CBP at the port of entry. Some seeds, including citrus, corn, cotton, okra, tomato, and pepper seed, are restricted and may require an import permit, phytosanitary certificate, inspection at a USDA Plant Inspection Station, or testing to ensure any potential risks are mitigated. Certain seed species are considered so high risk that they are prohibited."

Invasive species are a particular concern, as they can crowd out native species and affect agriculture. It's important not to plant a seed if you don't know what it is.

Whatever the final outcome of the investigation, the "mystery seeds" incident has been an important opportunity for agriculture officials to teach the public about the seriousness of seeds.

IF YOU RECEIVE AN UNSOLICITED PACKAGE CONTAINING SEEDS:

- Do not open the seed packets or handle the seeds.
- Do not plant unidentified seeds. They may be invasive species that could displace or destroy native plants and insects.
- Retain the seeds and packaging and put them in a zip-top bag.
- Contact Clemson University's Department of Plant Industry at 864-646-2140 or invasives@clemson.edu, or visit clemson.edu/public/regulatory/plant-industry/invasive/chinese_seeds/chinese_seed_index.html to make a report.

USDA ANNOUNCES MORE ELIGIBLE COMMODITIES FOR CFAP

APPLICATION DEADLINE EXTENDED TO SEPT. 11

BY US DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Sonny Perdue announced Aug. 12 that, in response to public comments and data, additional commodities are covered by the Coronavirus Food Assistance Program (CFAP). Additionally, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is extending the deadline to apply for the program to September 11, and producers with approved applications will receive their final payment. After reviewing over 1,700 responses, even more farmers and ranchers will have the opportunity for assistance to help keep operations afloat during these tough times.

"President Trump is standing with America's farmers and ranchers to ensure they get through this pandemic and continue to produce enough food and fiber to feed America and the world. That is why he authorized this $16 billion of direct support in the CFAP program and today we are pleased to add additional commodities eligible to receive much needed assistance," said Secretary Perdue. "CFAP is just one of the many ways USDA is helping producers weather the impacts of the pandemic. From deferring payments on loans to adding flexibilities to crop insurance and reporting deadlines, USDA has been leveraging many tools to help producers."

BACKGROUND:

USDA collected comments and supporting data for consideration of additional commodities through June 22, 2020. The following additional commodities are now eligible for CFAP:

- Specialty Crops - aloe leaves, bananas, batatas, bok choy, carambola (star fruit), cherimoya, chervil (french parsley), citron, curry leaves, daikon, dates, dill, donqua (winter melon), dragon fruit (red pitaya), endive, escarole, filberts, frisee, horseradish, kohlrabi, kumquats, leeks, mamey sapote, maple sap (for maple syrup), mesculin mix, microgreens, nectarines, parsley, persimmons, plantains, pomegranates, pummelos, pumpkins, rutabagas, shallots, tangelos, turnips/celeriac, turmeric, upland/winter cress, water cress, yautia/malanga, and yuca/cassava.
- Non-Specialty Crops and Livestock - liquid eggs, frozen eggs and all sheep. Only lambs and yearlings (sheep less than two years old) were previously eligible.
- Aquaculture - catfish, crawfish, largemouth bass and carp sold live as foodfish, hybrid striped bass, red drum, salmon, sturgeon, tilapia, trout, ornamental/tropical fish, and recreational sportfish.
- Nursery Crops and Flowers - nursery crops and cut flowers.

OTHER CHANGES TO CFAP INCLUDE:

- Seven commodities – onions (green), pistachios, peppermint, spearmint, walnuts and watermelons – are now eligible for Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Stability (CARES) Act funding for sales losses. Originally, these commodities were only eligible for payments on marketing adjustments.
- Correcting payment rates for onions (green), pistachios, peppermint, spearmint, walnuts, and watermelons.

Additional details can be found in the Federal Register in the Notice of Funding Availability and Final Rule Correction and at farmers.gov/cfap.

PRODUCERS WHO HAVE APPLIED:

To ensure availability of funding, producers with approved applications initially received 80 percent of their payments. The Farm Service Agency (FSA) will automatically issue the remaining 20 percent of the calculated payment to eligible producers. Going forward, producers who apply for CFAP will receive 100 percent of their total payment, not to exceed the payment limit, when their applications are approved.

APPLYING FOR CFAP:

Producers, especially those who have not worked with FSA previously, are recommended to call 877-508-8364 to begin the application process. An FSA staff member can help producers start their application during the phone call. Visit farmers.gov/cfap for forms, calculators, and more.

All USDA Service Centers are open for business, including some that are open to visitors to conduct business in person by appointment only. All Service Center visitors wishing to conduct business with FSA, Natural Resources Conservation Service or any other Service Center agency should call ahead and schedule an appointment. Service Centers that are open for appointments will pre-screen visitors based on health concerns or recent travel, and visitors must adhere to social distancing guidelines. Visitors are also required to wear a face covering during their appointment. Our program delivery staff will be in the office, and they will be working with our producers in the office, by phone and using online tools. More information can be found at farmers.gov/coronavirus.
