NRCS CONNECTS WITH LOCAL FARMERS WALKING THE LAND, STRENGTHENING THE FUTURE

BY ALICIA N. ALLMOND, USDA NRCS

In the heart of South Carolina's Lexington County, the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is making significant strides in promoting sustainable agriculture and environmental stewardship. At the forefront of these efforts are Joshua Boatwright, the District Conservationist, and Jamie Tyler, a Soil Conservationist, whose dedication exemplifies NRCS's mission to "Help People Help the Land."

Joshua Boatwright, a Clemson University alumnus, has been with NRCS for over 14 years and assumed the role of District Conservationist in October 2024. Balancing his professional commitments with family life—he is a father to two girls—Joshua remains passionate about his work. He believes that NRCS's mission is "important to the future of our country" and emphasizes that "everything we do is for the betterment of the environment and natural resources." For Joshua, the agency's motto is more than just words; it's a guiding principle that shapes his daily interactions with landowners.

Jamie Tyler joined NRCS in December 2023 after graduating from Virginia Tech. In her short tenure, she has been struck by the openness and enthusiasm of local landowners. "People are so willing to share," she notes. "They want you to 'see this and see that' on their property. They are really proud of NRCS coming out and walking the land with them." This mutual respect and collaboration have been instrumental in fostering strong relationships between NRCS staff and the community.

A typical day for Joshua and Jamie involves joint visits to local farms, providing technical assistance and guidance on conservation practices. During a recent visit to a 92-acre property, they walked the land with the owner, discussing potential conservation strategies. Joshua clarified NRCS practices, explaining, "We don't do perimeter fencing," and outlined the necessary prerequisites for implementing certain conservation measures. The landowner, having previously benefited from NRCS assistance, expressed appreciation for their continued support.

In Lexington County, NRCS's efforts predominantly focus on supporting poultry operations, addressing energy efficiency, managing animal waste, and promoting the cultivation of longleaf pine—a species native to the southeastern United States. These initiatives align with South Carolina's broader agricultural landscape, where poultry farming plays a significant role.

The commitment of NRCS employees like Joshua and Jamie ensures that South Carolina's natural resources are preserved and enhanced for future generations. Through their expertise and genuine care for the land and its stewards, they embody the essence of conservation, making a lasting impact on the community and the environment.

A LOOK AT FOOD INDEPENDENCE

One revealing topic to come out of Washington lately is a hard look at where our food is being grown and raised. I imagine some of the statistics will surprise you.

The United States imports a lot of fresh produce; 59 percent of our fruit and 35 percent of our vegetables are grown somewhere else in the world. That number has increased a lot over the last two decades. According to the USDA Economic Research Service, in 2023, Mexico and Canada supplied 51 percent and 2 percent, respectively, of U.S. fresh fruit imports, and 69 percent and 20 percent, respectively, of U.S. fresh vegetable imports in terms of value.

Looking beyond produce, an astonishing 80 percent of U.S. consumption of seafood comes from abroad—primarily from Canada, Chile, India, Indonesia, and Vietnam.

These trends are partly a result of agreements like the 2008 North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), and later the 2020 United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA), which eliminated barriers to the free flow of produce across borders. It was supposed to level the playing field. Not sure of that with some of the restrictions on US producers.

Now, trade agreements have opened lots of opportunities for US farmers. And there's a lot to be said for the safe, affordable, readily available, year-round fresh produce and other foods we enjoy in this country. But I've been talking for a long time about the national security importance of growing more of our own food. Just like energy independence, food independence is part of a safe and secure future.

Yes, we are part of a global agricultural economy, and I don't see that changing. US farmers do rely on imports of farm equipment and fertilizer components to grow our crops. Consumers have wanted and will continue to want certain foods that are only produced and grown outside the US.

Will tariffs and other trade policies change the landscape of global agriculture? Maybe. Regardless of what happens globally, I'd like to see people in our country buying more local food and US farmers growing a larger share of our food.

Statistics say South Carolina is doing things right. Vegetable acreage has increased in the state; we're seeing farmers diversifying; and the Certified SC program is successful in connecting with consumers. As we have this conversation at a national level, let's build on what's working right and let's build up where we can do better.

BEWARE OF AD SALES SCAMS

Often suspicious buyers are located in another state or country and refuse to meet in person, and may offer to pay with an easily falsifiable payment method like a money order. Protect yourself by buying and selling in person, verifying the payment, don't give out personal information, and trust your gut.

BY STEPHEN SLICE, SC AG COUNCIL

Enjoy the spring weather in Upstate South Carolina at a Clemson University athletic field, the SC Botanical Garden, and City Scape Winery! Join the South Carolina Agricultural Council for an unforgettable Spring 2025 Bus Tour of the Upstate. Mark your calendars for Friday, May 16, and prepare for a day filled with discovery, delicious treats, and delightful sips. Our adventure kicks off at 7:30 a.m. from the South Carolina Farm Bureau Office and concludes at 6 p.m., promising a full day of exploration and enjoyment.

1st Stop: We'll begin with a tour of a Clemson University athletic field to see how they manage their turfgrass. After visiting the athletic field, we'll have lunch at Sole on the Green restaurant in Clemson University's Madren Center.

2nd Stop: After enjoying lunch at Sole on the Green, we'll visit South Carolina Botanical Garden's Natural Heritage Garden. Step back in time as we embark on a guided tour of the Natural Heritage Garden. This unique experience will transport you to the days when explorers first set foot on South Carolina's coastal sands, buffalo roamed the Piedmont prairies, and Native Americans skillfully managed the landscape. Learn about the ecological, social, and cultural history of the region, from the art of African American basket weaving to the critical role of fire in land management. Before we leave, we'll visit the Visitor Center and Gift Shop, where you can learn about the SC Native Plant Certificate, Garden Membership, and Volunteer opportunities.

3rd Stop: Our final destination takes us to City Scape Winery in Pelzer, South Carolina. Unlike many other wineries, City Scape produces and bottles 100% of its wines on-site. During our exclusive behind-the-scenes tour, you'll explore their new, expanded facility, including a 6,400 sq. ft. underground production area, tasting room, and vineyards. Winemaker and owner Josh Jones will guide us through the winemaking process, from grape growing to bottling. After the tour, you'll have the opportunity to purchase a glass of wine or a flight to savor as you relax and reflect on the day (NOTE: wine is not included in tour price).

Don't miss this chance to experience the best of South Carolina's agricultural heritage. Reserve your spot today for a day of learning, tasting, and toasting in the beautiful Upstate!

If you are farmer, friend, or anybody else interested in agriculture, we welcome you to explore South Carolina agriculture with us on this upcoming tour!

The tour will begin at 7:30 am and end at 6:00 pm at the South Carolina Farm Bureau Office (724 Knox Abbott Dr, Cayce, SC 29033). Contact Stephen Slice at 803-360-2845 for additional information. The cost of the tour is $95. If you register online, Eventbrite will add a processing fee to the $95. Visit Eventbrite.com and search "South Carolina Agricultural Council Spring Tour 2025" to find the online registration page.

Participants may also pay by mailing a check payable to the SC Agricultural Council for $95 per person attending the tour to:

USDA EXPEDITING $10 BILLION IN DIRECT ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE TO AGRICULTURAL PRODUCERS

BY USDA

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Brooke Rollins, on National Agriculture Day, announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is issuing up to $10 billion directly to agricultural producers through the Emergency Commodity Assistance Program (ECAP) for the 2024 crop year. Administered by USDA’s Farm Service Agency (FSA), ECAP will help agricultural producers mitigate the impacts of increased input costs and falling commodity prices.

“Producers are facing higher costs and market uncertainty, and the Trump Administration is ensuring they get the support they need without delay,” said Secretary Rollins. “With clear direction from Congress, USDA has prioritized streamlining the process and accelerating these payments ahead of schedule, ensuring farmers have the resources necessary to manage rising expenses and secure financing for next season.”

Authorized by the American Relief Act, 2025, these economic relief payments are based on planted and prevented planted crop acres for eligible commodities for the 2024 crop year. To streamline and simplify the delivery of ECAP, FSA will begin sending pre-filled applications to producers who submitted acreage reports to FSA for 2024 eligible ECAP commodities soon after the signup period opens on March 19, 2025. Producers do not have to wait for their pre-filled ECAP application to apply. They can visit fsa.usda.gov/ecap to apply using a login.gov account or contact their local FSA office to request an application once the signup period opens.

ELIGIBLE COMMODITIES AND PAYMENT RATES

The commodities below are eligible for these per-acre payment rates:

- Wheat – $30.69
  - Corn – $42.91
  - Sorghum – $42.52
  - Barley – $21.67
  - Oats – $77.66
  - Upland cotton & Extra-long staple cotton – $84.74
  - Long & medium grain rice – $76.94
- Peanuts – $75.51
  - Soybeans – $29.76
  - Dry peas – $16.02
  - Lentils – $19.30
  - Small Chickpeas – $31.45
  - Large Chickpeas – $24.02

ELIGIBLE OILSEEDS

- Canola – $31.83
  - Crambe – $19.08
  - Flax – $20.97
  - Mustard – $11.36
- Rapeseed – $23.63
  - Safflower – $26.32
  - Sesame – $16.83
  - Sunflower – $27.23

PRODUCER ELIGIBILITY

Eligible producers must report 2024 crop year planted and prevented planted acres to FSA on an FSA-578, Report of Acreage form. Producers who have not previously reported 2024 crop year acreage or filed a notice of loss for prevented planted crops must submit an acreage report by the Aug. 15, 2025, deadline. Eligible producers can visit fsa.usda.gov/ecap for eligibility and payment details.

APPLYING FOR ECAP

Producers must submit ECAP applications to their local FSA county office by Aug. 15, 2025. Only one application is required for all ECAP eligible commodities nationwide. ECAP applications can be submitted to FSA in-person, electronically using Box and One-Span, by fax or by applying online at fsa.usda.gov/ecap utilizing a secure login.gov account.

If not already on file for the 2024 crop year, producers must have the following forms on file with FSA:

- Form AD-2047, Customer Data Worksheet.
- Form CCC-901, Member Information for Legal Entities (if applicable).
- Form CCC-902, Farm Operating Plan for an individual or legal entity.
- Form CCC 943, 75 percent of Average Gross Income from Farming, Ranching, or Forestry Certification (if applicable).
- AD-1026, Highly Erodible Land Conservation (HELC) and Wetland Conservation (WC) Certification.
- SF-3881, Direct Deposit.

Except for the new CCC-943, most producers, especially those who have previously participated in FSA programs, likely have these forms on file. However, those who are uncertain and want to confirm the status of their forms or need to submit the new Form-943, can contact their local FSA county office.

If a producer does not receive a pre-filled ECAP application, and they planted or were prevented from planting ECAP eligible commodities in 2024, they should contact their local FSA office.

ECAP PAYMENTS AND CALCULATOR

ECAP payments will be issued as applications are approved. Initial ECAP payments will be factored by 85% to ensure that total program payments do not exceed available funding. If additional funds remain, FSA may issue a second payment.

ECAP assistance will be calculated using a flat payment rate for the eligible commodity multiplied by the eligible reported acres. Payments are based on acreage and not production. For acres reported as prevented plant, ECAP assistance will be calculated at 50%.

For ECAP payment estimates, producers are encouraged to visit fsa.usda.gov/ecap to use the ECAP online calculator.

MORE INFORMATION

To learn more about FSA programs, producers can contact their local USDA Service Center. Producers can also prepare maps for acreage reporting as well as manage farm loans and view other farm records data and customer information by logging into their farmers.gov account. If you don’t have an account, sign up today.

*FSA helps America’s farmers, ranchers and forest landowners invest in, improve, protect and expand their agricultural operations through the delivery of agricultural programs for all Americans. FSA implements agricultural policy, administers credit and loan programs, and manages conservation, commodity, disaster recovery and marketing programs through a national network of state and county offices and locally elected county committees. # SOPAKCO EXPANDING MARLBORO COUNTY OPERATION

COMPANY INVESTING $22.8 MILLION IN MANUFACTURING OPERATION

BY SC DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

COLUMBIA, S.C. – SOPAKCO, a world leader in processed foods, announced it is expanding its operations in Marlboro County. The company is investing $22.8 million to grow its Bennettsville manufacturing operation.

SOPAKCO's investment will include the renovation of an existing facility and construction of an additional facility to expand the company's food products manufacturing operation located at 320 Broad Street in Bennettsville.

- Founded in 1943 and headquartered in Mullins, SOPAKCO specializes in the design, processing and packaging of ready-to-eat meals and is a leading supplier of combat rations to the U.S. military.
- The company's customers include federal, state and local agencies, as well as commercial retailers.
- Operations are expected to be online in Oct. 2025.

QUOTES

“SOPAKCO has experienced great success in South Carolina. The value that Marlboro County brings through its business-friendly climate and quality workforce has allowed us to thrive here, and we look forward to continuing our partnership.” — SOPAKCO President Lonnie Thompson

“SOPAKCO's $22.8 million investment in Marlboro County reinforces a strong commitment to South Carolina. We congratulate SOPAKCO on this expansion and look forward to supporting the company as they continue making a positive impact in our state.”—Gov. Henry McMaster

“SOPAKCO's ongoing success in Marlboro County underscores that South Carolina has the resources businesses need to continually grow and thrive. We applaud SOPAKCO's latest investment in our state and celebrate the company's decision to grow its footprint in one of our rural communities.”— Secretary of Commerce Harry M. Lightsey III

“There is a reason why we have two ears and one mouth. It's because we're supposed to listen twice as much as we talk. We are listening to our industries and getting results. We want to thank SOPAKCO for choosing Marlboro County for their next expansion.” —Marlboro County Council Chairman Anthony Woods

RESIDENTS CAN HELP DPH TRACK WEST NILE VIRUS BY SAFELY SUBMITTING DEAD BIRDS FOR TESTING

MOSQUITO MANAGEMENT AND BITE PREVENTION ARE KEY TO LIMITING EXPOSURE TO WEST NILE VIRUS

BY SC DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Residents can help the South Carolina Department of Public Health (DPH) track West Nile virus this spring, summer and fall by taking steps to safely submit certain species of dead birds for lab testing.

DPH’s dead bird surveillance program helps the state identify where and when there is an increase in West Nile virus (WNV) activity. A high rate of birds infected with the disease indicates an overall increase of the virus in a certain area. DPH notifies local officials if there is indication of increased WNV activity within their community so they can take appropriate actions to reduce the risk of WNV infections in both people and animals.

“By submitting dead birds, you help provide an early warning so that local government or local mosquito control providers can safeguard the health of residents,” said Dr. Chris Evans, DPH State Public Health Entomologist. “Timely mosquito control, preventing mosquito bites, and eliminating mosquito breeding is the best way to protect your community from illness.”

Mosquitoes become infected with WNV when they feed on infected birds that carry the virus in their blood. After one to two weeks, infected mosquitoes can transmit WNV to people and other animals.

“Most people infected with West Nile virus have no symptoms, and although the risk of serious illness is low, it is possible for potentially fatal inflammation of the brain to occur in infected people, a condition known as encephalitis,” said Dr. Linda Bell, DPH State Epidemiologist. “The primary way to get West Nile virus is from the bite of an infected mosquito, which is why mosquito bite prevention and control are so important in reducing human exposures.”

The amount of WNV activity varies from year to year. In 2024, 30 birds were tested from 12 counties, six of which tested positive for West Nile virus. Getting accurate data indicating mosquito-borne disease activity relies on adequate numbers of dead birds being submitted. DPH’s Mosquito-Borne Disease Viewer map shows current and historic county-level information for identified non-human instances of WNV and other mosquito-borne diseases.

DPH doesn’t perform mosquito control. However, the agency does provide current information that helps individuals, communities and local mosquito control programs take action to reduce mosquito populations and prevent bites. Mosquito control programs are managed at the local level.

Specifically, DPH asks residents to submit recently deceased crows, blue jays, house finches, house sparrows and other songbirds that appear not to have been injured and are not decayed. These species of birds are more susceptible to WNV than other species, making them good candidates for testing. Birds of other types will be tested on a case-by-case basis.

Deceased birds can be reported or submitted to DPH at local public health departments March 17 through November 30. To safely collect a dead bird, residents should:

- Use gloves or pick up the bird with doubled, plastic bags. Do not touch a bird, dead or alive, with bare hands.
- Keep the bagged bird cool until it can be placed on ice or in a refrigerator. If you can’t deliver the bird carcass to DPH within 36 hours of collection, freeze it until you are able to deliver it or have it shipped.
- Download and complete a Dead Bird Submission and Reporting Sheet for West Nile Virus and take the sheet and dead bird to a local DPH Health office during normal business hours (8:30 am – 5 pm, Monday–Friday). See a list of available DPH offices for drop-off; WIC-only public health departments can’t accept birds.

For more information, including locating a local DPH office for submitting deceased birds, visit dph.sc.gov/birdtesting or contact the Vector-Borne Diseases Laboratory at 803-896-3802 or vector@dph.sc.gov.

Additional information about WNV and mosquito management tips are available at dph.sc.gov/mosquitoes.

9TH “FEEDING THE ECONOMY” REPORT DEMONSTRATES IMMENSE IMPACT OF THE AMERICAN FOOD AND AGRICULTURE INDUSTRY AMIDST ECONOMIC CHALLENGES

AMERICAN AG CONTRIBUTES $9.5 TRILLION IN ECONOMIC VALUE AND 1 MILLION JOBS TO NATIONAL ECONOMY

On March 18, 2025, 36 food and agriculture groups released the ninth annual Feeding the Economy report, a farm-to-fork study of the entire agricultural supply chain. The report analyzes the robust direct and indirect economic contributions of one of America’s most essential industries to U.S. jobs, wages, economic output, and taxes.

The 2025 report confirms the agriculture industry is at the heart of the U.S. economy, generating more than $9.5 trillion in economic value, which amounts to 18.7% of the overall national economy. While these findings highlight the enormous impact of the agriculture industry, this is a modest decrease compared to 2024, when agriculture contributed more than $9.6 trillion to the economy, about 20% of total economic output.

Additional highlights from the 2025 Feeding the Economy report include:

- The agriculture industry has shown significant growth since the pandemic, increasing its economic output by close to 25% and demonstrating the industry’s resilience and innovation amidst global supply chain challenges.
- Direct employment in food and agriculture has grown by more than 1 million jobs since 2020, contributing to overall American job growth and high U.S. employment rates.
- The United States exports nearly $183 billion in food and agriculture products, critical to the strength and growth of our industry.

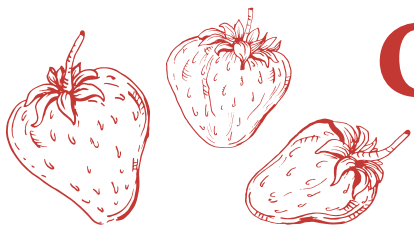

Despite these considerable gains and notable contributions to the U.S. economy, certain emerging trends represent an industry under pressure. Direct and indirect industry wages have grown year-over-year but have failed to keep pace with inflation, reflecting nationwide economic stressors and the high cost of labor for employers. Additionally, the number of agricultural manufacturing jobs has fallen year-over-year and is down nearly 30,000 jobs since 2020.

The National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, of which the South Carolina Department of Agriculture is a member, was among the 36 sponsoring organizations of the report. The full list of organizations is available online.

Certified South Carolina Strawberry Farms

Strawberries are one of the earliest and most exciting spring agriculture products in South Carolina. Some farms are U-pick, while others sell their berries at roadside stands and local markets. Some farms may shift business models mid-season, inviting guests on the farm for U-pick only during the busiest times. In fact, some are not quite open yet for the year, but will be soon. It's best to track these farms on Facebook or Instagram and/or contact them before you visit.
